Discussion/Writing Guide

Some of these questions are for class Discussion and others will work well as Writing Questions. I wrote a lot of questions, so you can choose the ones that will work best for your students. Your feedback is welcome.

4. At the beginning of the book, there is a quote which says: "Life is lived forward but understood backward." What do you think that means? Who talks to Calvin about this idea? Where does it happen in the book? Does Calvin find this thought helpful? Do you?

Note: The quote was written by the Danish philosopher Soren Kierkegaard. He is not an easy read, but his ideas are appealing to teens because he talks about issues like alienation, ethics, powerlessness, and commitment. If your students want to know more about him, there is a good entry on Wikipedia and some interesting quotes at Brainyquote.com. Good luck with this one!
